

BRANIFF AIRWAYS FOUNDATION AUTHORS PANAGRA HISTORY FOR WIKIPEDIA - A new and comprehensive history of Pan American Grace Airways, known as Panagra and dubbed "The World's Friendliest Airline" has been authored by Braniff Airways Foundation and posted on Wikipedia under the search term Pan American Grace Airways. This work now chronicles the history of the great carrier, which ultimately became the primary United States airline operating between the US Mainland and Central and South America, from 1928 until its groundbreaking merger with Braniff International in February 1967.

The updated history pays close attention to the earliest days of the pioneering carrier and thoroughly discusses the roles that its parent companies, Pan American World Airways Systems and W. R. Grace and Company, played in the development of this unique airline that was created for the sole purpose of winning authority for prime foreign air mail contracts for carriage of mail between the United States and Latin America. Panagra would play a key role in Pan American's further entrenchment in the development and control of air travel in the Southern Hemisphere, a role that would ultimately lead to the sale of Panagra to Braniff Airways.

Follow the link below to read the new Pan American Grace Airways historical chronology:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pan_American-Grace_Airways...

Braniff Airways Foundation

Copyright 1926 2019

Photo: Private Collection, Copyright

Braniff International Heritage Archives, Curator

Now Associated with The University of Texas at Dallas System

EN.WIKIPEDIA.ORG

Pan American-Grace Airways - Wikipedia

Pan American-Grace Airways, also known as Panagra, and dubbed "The World's Friendliest Airline" was an airline formed as a joint venture between Pan American World Airways and Grace Shipping Company. On September 13, 1928, a small single-engine Fairchild airliner flew from Lima, Peru, to Talara, Per...

Pan American-Grace Airways, also known as Panagra, and dubbed "The World's Friendliest Airline" was an airline formed as a joint venture between Pan American World Airways and Grace Shipping Company. On September 13, 1928, a small single-engine Fairchild airliner flew from Lima, Peru, to Talara, Per...